

machCon GmbH is a moderately growing consulting firm that serves national and international large and medium-sized customers in a wide range of industries, particularly healthcare and life science industries, with their demanding quality and regulatory requirements. Our clients are loyal to us because of our unique skillsets and our ability to adapt to new work environments fast.

We are managing projects, analyzing businesses, and taking care of IT Security on highest levels and we offer trainings on complex subjects and targeted coaching's of managers.

Take this opportunity. We look forward to receiving your detailed application by e-mail to contact@machcon.ch.

We are looking for a
Information Security Manager (m/f)

---

Key Responsibilities

- You lead customer projects in the area of IT risk management.
  - You develop IT security strategies and gather requirements.
  - You strengthen the information security and risk management mindset.
  - You manage and report on security incidents.
  - You provide regular security policy updates and develop plans for security measures.
  - You are accountable for business continuity and disaster recovery plans.
  - You support existing customers with regard to the machCon GmbH consulting offer and are also involved in the acquisition of new projects in this context.
  - In addition, you will be responsible for the conceptual development of machCon GmbH's services / consulting services.
-

Your Profile

- University degree in computer science or equivalent.
  - Experience as an information security officer.
  - Software development background.
  - Good understanding of network- and system engineering.
  - Experience with the regulated environment of the healthcare industry.
  - Proactive and outgoing personality, strategic and analytical mind, able to manage multiple tasks.
  - You share our values such as commitment, openness and integrity.
  - Fluent in English language; German language skills desired.
-

We offer

- A diversified consulting activity in an interesting and international customer environment with strategically relevant customer projects.
- The opportunity to develop further and take on responsibility.
- A professional consulting environment together with a young, highly committed team in a moderately growing company.
- Above-average opportunities for further training, a performance-related salary, and extensive additional benefits.