

machCon GmbH is a moderately growing consulting firm that serves national and international large and medium-sized customers in a wide range of industries, particularly healthcare and life science industries, with their demanding quality and regulatory requirements. Our clients are loyal to us because of our unique skillsets and our ability to adapt to new work environments fast.

We are managing projects, analyzing businesses, and taking care of IT Security on highest levels and we offer trainings on complex subjects and targeted coaching's of managers.

Take this opportunity. We look forward to receiving your detailed application by e-mail to contact@machcon.ch.

We are looking for a
Solution Architect (m/f)

Key Responsibilities

- You develop concepts for IT solutions with your technical expertise.
 - You develop prototypes and proof of concepts.
 - You analyze the possibilities for innovative solutions and improvements.
 - You align user requirements with system designs.
 - You build data models and maps with given requirements.
 - You support existing customers with regard to the machCon GmbH consulting offer and are also involved in the acquisition of new projects in this context.
 - In addition, you will be responsible for the conceptual development of machCon GmbH's services / consulting services.
-

Your Profile

- University degree in IT, Engineering, or equivalent.
 - Good understanding of information architecture and data modelling.
 - Ability to work in complex projects involving many systems and integrations.
 - Basic programming skills (Java, Python, JavaScript, R).
 - Experience with the regulated environment of the healthcare industry.
 - Enthusiastic about the digitalization of healthcare.
 - Communication skills with stakeholders and project management skills.
 - Proactive and outgoing personality, strategic and analytical mind, able to manage multiple tasks.
 - You share our values such as commitment, openness and integrity.
 - Fluent in English language; German language skills desired.
-

We offer

- A diversified consulting activity in an interesting and international customer environment with strategically relevant customer projects.
- The opportunity to develop further and take on responsibility.
- A professional consulting environment together with a young, highly committed team in a moderately growing company.
- Above-average opportunities for further training, a performance-related salary, and extensive additional benefits.